NEGRO ACCUSED BY MRS. REED

Recess Appointment Is Declined By Warren

SARGEANT NAMED BY COOLIDGE IN PLACE OF WARREN

Senate Leaders Think Quick Approval Can Be Gained

PRESIDENT CHOSE AN OLD FRIEND

Warren Refused Take Recess Appointment Offered

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 17.—John Sargeant was nominated today by President Coolidge to be attorney general. The name of Mr. Sargeant was sent to the capital after Charles Warren had declined to take a recess appointment and after Senate leaders had assured the white house there was a fair prospect for quick approval.

At the same time the white house made public letters exchanged by the president and Mr. Warren in which the president referred to the fight as "a political controversy" and declared the plan to give Mr. Warren recess appointment was due to his unshaken confidence in him.

As in the case of former attorney general Stone, President Coolidge drew from his close personal acquaintances in selecting Mr. Sargeant.

The nominee has spent the greater part of his life at Ledow, Vermont where Mr. Coolidge as a boy attended an academy there. They had been friends for years and when Mr. Coolidge was at Plymouth last summer, he spent many hours visiting with Mr. Sargeant.

Sargeant is a former attorney general of the state and is characterized by his friends as being "the best lawyer in New England."

LEGION DRIVE TO START APRIL 1ST

Morgan County's Quota Of Endowment Is $1,500

The American Legion's drive, in Alabama, for the state's share of the $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of veterans, will be started on April 1. Alabama is asked to give $50,000 of the total amount, and Morgan county's share of the state's quota is $1500.

The dates for the period of solicitation were announced by Thomas E. Kilby, of Anniston, chairman of the state endowment fund committee, together with the quotas determined for each county. April 6, the final day of the campaign is expected to be most important, Chairman Kilby said. Then every effort will be made to not only reach the state's quota but if it has been reached, to exceed it.

In fixing quotas, population and resources were taken into consideration so that each county would have a proportionately equal share.

"Preparations will have been completed before April 1 to make that week a memorable one," Chairman Kilby declared. "Every one will be given the opportunity of helping in this movement which means permanent relief for two classes who deserve our utmost consideration—the disabled veterans and the 30,000 war orphans."

"It is as important now that we do our part in solving this post war development as it was to help finance

Indiana Coal Men Show Little Disposition to Join the Parley

(Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, March 17.—A meeting today of bituminous coal operators of Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, Illinois and Indiana, forming the central competitive field, was contingent upon the participation of Illinois. The meeting was called by coal operators to discuss the downward scale of miners' wages.

HILLSBORO, Ill., March 17.—Illinois coal operators will not attend the Cleveland meeting said President R. Miller of the Illinois coal operators association today.

"We are about at the end of our rope," he added, "but we see no use in attending the conference in view of the attitude of the miners, especially President Lewis."

"The Illinois operators feel that the wage scale is too high," Mr. Miller said.

Four Are Injured In Auto Accident

Four men were painfully hurt on Sunday as a result of an auto crash on the Decatur-Moulton highway near noon about six miles east of Moulton. The men were taken from the wreckage and brought to their respective homes here by Luther Sherrill who was visiting in Moulton.

From reports it is understood that two received broken collar bones and the other two received lacerations about the face and head.

Reports were greatly exaggerated as to the condition of the men, it being rumored that two were dead and the others in a very critical condition.

The Moulton correspondent of the Daily reported that the car was a Dodge and was overturned on a hill side. It was said that the car was proceeding east but following the accident was turned west.

SHABBAZ TALKS TO MINISTERIAL BODY

Pastors Favor Plan of Kiwanis for Central Charity Idea

Reverend Y. H. Shabbaz addressed the Ministerial Association, in session at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday, on the conditions that prevail in the Near East at this time and in the period of the world war. His address was highly interesting and educational. Chairman D. D. McGehee of the Morgan Kiwanis club presented a resolution adopted by the Kiwanis favoring the establishment of a central charity organization for the cities. The plan was endorsed by the pastors present.

Reverend Shabbaz was the principal speaker for the occasion and recounted his experiences in Persia where he was at work during the world war. A most striking illustration of conditions was used by the minister in saying that the English language could not describe the horrors, the privations and the want of the people in the Near East when that section was suffering from the ravages of war. He stated that one of his own children died of starvation and that he and his family wore the same clothing over a period of six months. He described the ravaging of cities and towns and the wholesale slaughter of women and children.

Reverend Shabbaz paid a glowing tribute to the United States in saying that while the other countries over the globe were willing to aid the Near East that every one of them wanted a slice of territory with the exception of the United States. He continued that the United States did more for those war stricken areas than the other countries and expected nothing in return. The attending ministers greatly appreciated the message.

Chairman D. D. McGehee of the charity committee of the Morgan Kiwanis club and W. J. Garnett, a member of the committee appeared before the association, presenting a plan for the organization of a central charity association whereby all work can be done from one organization. The ministers concurred in the plan. The resolution was the same that was adopted at the Kiwanis meeting of last week. A meeting was called for Sunday when all churches and churches of the

PHYSICIAN TELLS A STORY OF HORROR TO STATE ATTORNEYS

Faiman Admits Giving Shepard Germs to Kill Rich Youth

$100,000 WAS THE AMOUNT NAMED

To Have Been Paid At the Death of Young Millionaire

(Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Ill., March 17.—True bills charging both William D. Shepard and C. C. Faiman, with having caused the death of William McClintock with typhoid fever are confidently expected this afternoon, said Robert E. Crowe, states attorney, after an all night session upon reaching his offices today.

CHICAGO, March 17.—Typhoid fever germs which killed William Nelson McClintock, millionaire youth were given William Darling Shepard and foster father and chief heir, upon his promise to pay $100,000 after settlement of the estate, C. C. Faiman, head of a school of bacteriology, told states attorney Robert E. Crowe today.

The amount was decided upon, it was said, after Faiman had demanded a quarter of a million dollars, it was reduced to $200,000 and finally compromised upon $100,000 after numerous conferences Faiman told Crowe today.

Faiman said that he had advised the method of administering the germs and advised Shepard of a further step to insure the death of the rich youth.

Approximately a dozen conferences were recounted in Faiman's statement an brought in associations with Shepard up to the time of McClintock's death when Faiman said, Shepard said, "He was going away for a short rest and would return soon."

Faiman's statement does not incriminate Shepard in the actual manner of administering the germ but said the school head had coached Shepard along that line.

The announced statement contains the question of Joseph Savage, assistant state attorney as to whether Faiman realized the criminal aspect from his own standpoint and his reply was that he did.

After typhoid was well developed in young McClintock, Faiman said a doctor had been called in. However he assured Shepard by telling him that should the physician administer vaccine that it would not counteract the bacilli.

Faiman told Shepard of the course of typhoid and was asked if they discussed the boy's susceptibility. "Yes" was his reply.

At a meeting in a down town hotel in September, 1924, Faiman's statement said, we discussed the methods of administering typhoid cultures. We also talked about Billy and Shepard said it was about time that he made his will and also that it was about time to dispose of him."

"He said that it was up to him entirely as to how the will was made and that about $1,000,000 was involved."

"I asked him about his cultures and he said that they were alright."

"I told him to be careful not to infect himself."

He next saw Shepard in November, 1924, Faiman said, "when he came to my office and told me the big proposition was in progress." It was at this time, Faiman said, that Shepard searched through the letter files of the school and regained a letter he had written regarding a course of study there.

"I was figuring on the whole proposition

BELIEVED PLAN IN SIGHT TO CONTINUE THE SCHOOL TERM

Albany Board, to Meet Tonight To Discuss the Situation

PLAN IS BEING WORKED ON NOW

Thought That the Full Term May Be Utilized

The Albany school board will meet tonight, when it is expected a report will be received on a plan for financing the schools for the remainder of this term. The board was scheduled to have met Monday evening, but the session was delayed 24 hours.

In the meantime efforts were being made to arrange a plan, and it was believed by many that the effort would be successful, for providing the $15,000, which the board estimates will be necessary to raise, if the term is to go its full nine months, instead of being curtailed to seven months and one-half.

The increased enrollment in the schools this year, the increase including the enrollment of children six years of age, instead of seven years of age as was the former custom, has necessitated the use of all the money available to bring the schools to a successful year thus far, it was explained, and additional money will be necessary to continue operation of the schools for the entire year.

In advance of the meeting tonight, officials did not care to discuss the situation in detail, but indications were that a way will be found to keep the schools going.

Maxwell Remains to Arrive Tonight

The remains of Ardleigh G Maxwell, former local boy, will be brought from Memphis on a night train tonight and funeral services will be held from the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Maxwell, on First Street West, Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Young Maxwell died at the Baptist hospital in Memphis on Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The services will be conducted by Reverend James D. Hunter of the Central Methodist church and Rev. W. P. Reeves of the Central Baptist church. Interment will be made at Herrington cemetery in the western part of Morgan county, west of Falkville.

The deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Maxwell and one brother, Lamar Maxwell.

Went and Hutson appeared for the defendant.

The jury was picked at 10:35 and Solicitor D. C. Almon read the indictment to the jury. Attorney Hutson entered a plea of not guilty on behalf of the defendant.

The state plunged into its case with a rapidity which apparently surprised the crowded courtroom, calling to the stand as the first witness, Mrs. Reed.

The woman spoke in a clearly audible voice, declaring she had resided in the Austinville community about 17 years. She was questioned in direct examination by Solicitor D. C. Almon. She has known Andrew McWilliams three or four years, she testified, saying that he resided in Oklahoma and was engaged as a sanitary officer in Austinville.

The negro came to the Reed home about every two weeks, in the course of his duties, she said.

She halted momentarily, when the Solicitor began questioning her about the attack in her home. She was assaulted, she testified on Friday morning, this year, at her home in Austinville, Morgan county, Alabama.

On the night of the attack, she said, her father-in-law and her mother-in-law were spending the night at the Reed home. Four children also were sleeping in the house, she said. The baby was in bed with her, she testified.

Her husband was at work in the Louisville and Nashville shops. She was awakened, she declared, by someone catching at her throat. The intruder had a knife, she said, which was placed against her throat and she was warned that if she made any outcry, her throat would be cut. The knife was kept pressed against her throat, she said.

The intruder asked her if she knew him, Mrs. Reed declared, but she added that she did not reply to the question. The knife had two blades, the witness averred, one blade of which was open and one closed. A knife was shown.

During the time the knife was kept at her throat, Mrs. Reed testified, she was attacked.

"Do you know your assailant," Solicitor Almon asked.

The witness replied that her assailant was Andrew McWilliams and upon being asked to point him out, she turned to where the defendant was sitting with his counsel and pointed her finger at him.

The woman said her hands touched the assailant's jaws and they were "flabby" as if he had not teeth. She asserted she had seen McWilliams before, had heard him talk and that he was "the man."

There was no light in the room, she said, but she had left a light burning when retiring. The intruder came in by a window, the screen of which had been torn off and the window raised.

Attorney Went began the cross examination for the defense. She gave her age as 37 years. She did not remember whether the night of the attack was unusually dark or not. She did not know who put the light out. A chalk diagram of the floor plan of the Reed home was drawn on the floor, in front of the witness

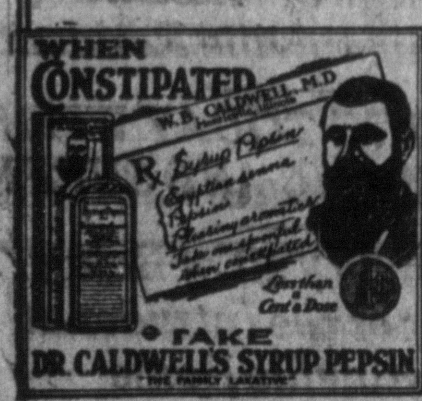

CONSTIPATION means DISEASE

These young rascals when they are well are the greatest institutions on earth. But when that insidious lurking monster—constipation—ties up their bowels, then the world is dark. Economy

IF Bush Brick construction seems a little higher in first cost than less desirable building materials, consider these facts.

1. The enormous output of the Bush Brick plant assures prompt delivery of any quantity, for any job, eliminating delays costly to contractor and owner.

2. When the cost of periodic painting, repairs, replacements and excessive fire insurance premiums are deducted from the original cost of Bush Brick construction, it is actually cheaper!

Woman On Stand As First Witness In "Attack Case" stand by Attorney Wert, being aided in directions by the witness.

Her father-in-law was about 65 years of age, the witness said in reply to a question of the defense attorney. She could not see her assailant because of the darkness, she asserted, but felt a hand against her throat. The intruder spoke once or twice "out." The blade of the knife stick into her throat once or twice, she said. She repeated she did not answer when asked by the assailant if she knew who he was. The child asleep with her was awakened by the noise, she said.

A doctor was called, after the attack, she said. The witness denied telling the intruder that there was money in a drawer, if that was what he wanted. The doors had not been disturbed, the witness testified.

She was not unconscious, she said, but she got up and by holding to the bed, made her way about. Her father-in-law seemed to "kinder rouse up," she said as a result of the noise. She called to him. She repeated she could not see the intruder but felt his cheek and his teeth were gone.

Her husband came home about 5:30 to 6:00 o'clock, she said. Many people came to the home, but she denied that she told Mrs. B. F. Vandiver that she did not know whether her assailant was white or black.

She could tell the intruder was a negro, she said, by his odor, voice and "curly whiskers on his face."

When she called her father-in-law, she said; "Get up, Mr. Reed, there is a nigger in the house and he has nearly killed me."

Bloodhounds were brought to the scene afterwards, she said.

On re-direct, the witness told Solicitor Almon that she informed her father and mother-in-law of the attack, asserting that she had been "nearly killed" and accusing McWilliams.

Attorney Wert asked why hounds had been brought, but the objection to the question was sustained by the court.

"Who else did you tell that Andrew McWilliams was the man?" Mr. Wert inquired, and the witness replied "everybody."

M. L. Reed, father-in-law of Mrs. Reed, was the second witness, testifying that he and his wife were spending the night at the home of their son. He was aroused, he said, by a lumbering noise and heard his son's wife calling him "get up, Mr. Reed, there's a nigger in the house."

He told of examining the premises after the attack.

On cross examination by Attorney Wert, he gave his age as 63 years. After getting up on the night of the attack, he said, he talked with members of the family and then telephoned. He could not say how high the window in the rear of the home was. The door was not open, he said. He told of finding a pair of baby shoes just outside the house, near the window. They were taken off one of the children by him the evening before, he testified.

The court permitted a short recess for consultations.

Nannie Reed, mother-in-law of Mrs. Reed, was the third witness. She was at the house on the night of the assault, she said, but did not hear anything until the "alarm." There were no lights, she said. Mrs. Reed told Mr. Reed to "get up there's a nigger in the house," she said. She declared Della Reed "looked nervous and frightened," but her answer that Mrs. Reed "looked scared like frightened pictures" was excluded by the court. The woman was "dark" about the face like one "choked," she said.

On cross examination, the witness was asked about the lights. Both she and her husband "hit the floor about the same time," she answered in reply to a question relative to the call from Mrs. Reed. She saw a "place" on the woman's throat, she testified.

Court adjourned until 1:20 o'clock. The state having rested, the defense began the introduction of its testimony as court opened for the afternoon session. John Patterson was called and testified he has lived here 34 years, has known McWilliams 30 years. When he first knew him McWilliams was probably "going on" fifty years. The witness said McWilliams' standing in the community was good.

On cross examination, Solicitor Almon asked one question, "You say you are a member of the legislature?" Upon receiving an affirmative answer, the solicitor said "stand aside."

J. N. Hendrix, chief of police of Albany, said the defendant had a good character in the community.

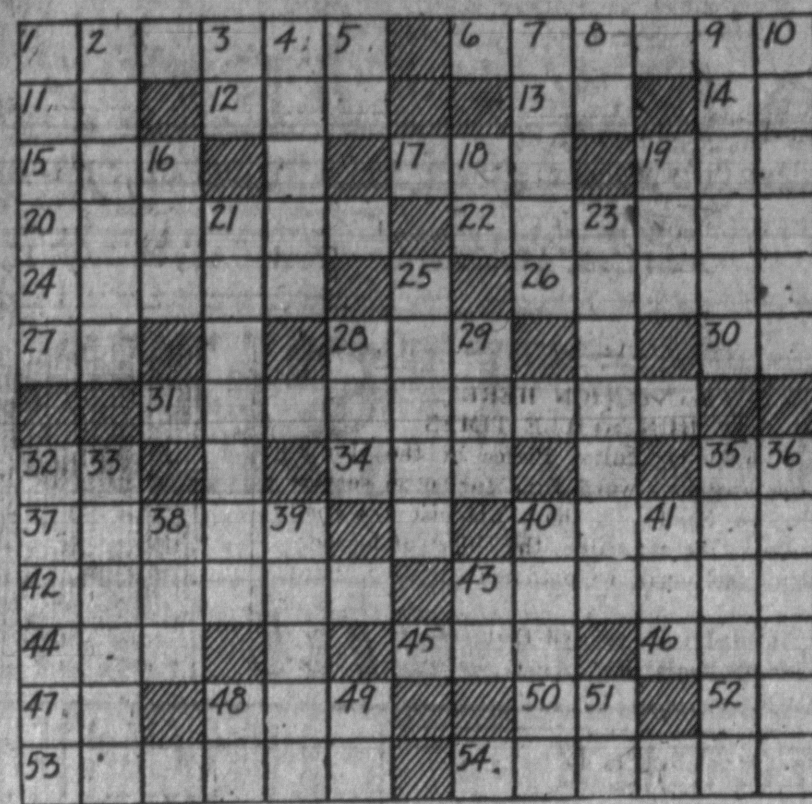

Joe Petty testified his mother is 65 years of age. The court sustained an objection to a question if the defendant nursed his mother? He judged the defendant to be about 70 years of age.

Betty McWilliams, wife of the defendant, said she lived in Oklahoma some time. On day before the attack her husband worked at home sawing trees and didn't go anywhere but the barn after sundown. The defendant's arm was giving him trouble from a carbuncle and she said she bathed it and he went to bed. He could not use the arm she said.

The police came to the house the next morning. She described the visit and said her husband was still in bed.

The witness was cross-examined, she stated she meant that the defendant was out there where they were sawing wood, but did not saw wood himself, simply overseeing the work.

The witness was questioned closely about all the events of the day.

The police came back about 11 o'clock the same morning, she said. The carbuncle was on his wrist, the witness said.

The court cautioned the courtroom against laughter.

Johnnie McWilliams, grand son of the defendant, was questioned by attorney Hutson. He told of his grand father being at home on the day before the attack.

The witness said the defendant stayed at home on the night of the attack. He said he was up on the morning the officers visited the house. He saw his grandmother treat the defendant's arm the night before.

On cross-examination he insisted he knew the defendant slept at home all night.

W. B. McCullough stated he had known the defendant 21 or 22 years and considered his character as good.

Dr. A. T. Grayson said he had practiced 22 years. Before the attack he said he had treated McWilliams for a carbuncle and that the latter could not use his arm.

The states objection to a series of questions regarding the strength of the arm were sustained.

The state objected and was sustained when the defense asked if the physician believed a man of defendant's age and physical condition could have committed the alleged act.

The witness was cross-examined by Solicitor Almon. He said he had seen the defendant about 20 times during the treatment for the carbuncle.

to Jim Fate McWilliams. He declared he was at home on the night of the Austinville attack.

He had supper, his wife bathed his arm and he went to bed.

The addressed some of his remarks directly to the jury.

He was in bed he said when the officers arrived the next morning. He denied going into the Reed home and denied ever having attacked anyone.

On cross examination the witness identified a knife taken from his person and admitted having lost a number of his teeth. He said he did not know where Mr. Reed worked.

The defense was granted a recess for consultation as the witness was excused.

The defense announced as through. The state offered the knife and the defense objected. The objection was sustained.

Mr. Wert read a defense showing of absent witnesses.

Mrs. B. F. Vandiver said that Mrs. Reed told her she could not tell whether the assailant was a white man or negro.

Otto Petty that defendant was 75 or 80 years old.

The state called McWilliams back to the stand. He said after the arrest he and another negro were taken to the Reed home, but the defense offered many objections to questions of the state.

When he spoke, Mrs. Reed said "that voice sounds sorter like it."

The court then excluded from the jury the foregoing testimony.

Deputy Sheriff Ben Poole said he examined the defendant and did not find any jaw teeth.

On cross examination he said if defendant had any jaw teeth, he didn't find any.

The defendant walked before the jury to let them look into his mouth. The court granted an hour to each side for argument.

SINNERS IN HEAV

off alone to the bench, leaving her staring after him.

Strangely enough, she did not lie awake this time. Those few passionate moments had embodied hours of emotional strain. The force which had seemed to be sweeping her from all moorings had caused her to struggle violently, both mentally and physically, to retain her own individuality, to prevent it from being submerged in his. His lips on hers would have been sheer physical pain, unbearable, overpowering. . . . Afterward, a numbness fell upon her mind. She felt too desperately tired to attempt coherent thought. This volcano upon which, nowadays, they lived, must take its course! Since the moment when she had seen the shark, a lifetime of tumultuous emotions had whirled her mind and heart round like thisledown. Confused, yet subtly, gloriously elated, she slept till dawn.

A fusillade of sticks and stones roused her, but she did not see Alan. And a sudden overwhelming shyness restrained her from calling to him.

But there was no trace of last night's passion about this man of a hundred moods when they met; and her self-confidence revived. While she was packing the old tin box with food, he arrived, fresh and damp from the river. He gaily deposited a large bundle at her feet, and wished her a merry Christmas.

With surprise, she uncovered a cunningly contrived hammock made from tree fiber, airplane canvas, and aerial! As this was exactly what she had often wanted upon hot afternoons, her pleasure was unbounded.

"I have nothing for you, Alan!" she regretted, with compunction.

"Oh? Well—we'll see about that!" he replied enigmatically; then hurried their departure.

They walked quickly, saying little, over the rough ground which, covered with low scrub, sloped upward on the east of their bay.

They paused to rest and eat, in the eastern wood, meaning to remain there during the midday heat. The shady branches stretched out over the beach were welcome to eyes dazzled by the glare without. The intoxication of the morning's beauties, their own radiant health and spirits, the strains of the wild sweet orchestra rising all around, lent enchantment to that little picnic.

Barbara had, as it were, caught at reeds during the last few weeks, but they had broken in her grasp. Onward she was madly whirling. She knew it; could not save herself; could not quench that light in his eyes, and her own foolish weakness in his proximity.

Abruptly, he went to her and took her by the shoulders, saying nothing, but gazing into her face as if searching for something he wished to learn there.

Suddenly, apprehension in her eyes deepened to horror; a cry burst from her lips; she became rigid in his hands.

With such precipitate haste did the whole incident occur that she could never afterward clearly remember how it happened that, in a flash, the face of the whole world changed. . . . She was conscious of a dark bulk, a savage face she knew well, looming suddenly up amid the trees—of a spear-arm uplifted, preparatory to hurling the weapon into the back of an unsuspecting enemy. . . .

Her man was in danger! That was her only coherent thought. Instantly she had whipped out the revolver, and, with deadly calm, raised it. . . .

A sharp report and a puff of smoke; a wild howl of pain and fear; then a stream of blood oozing from the black shoulder in front of her, as the smoke cleared away. Those were the outward impressions of which her mind was dimly aware; but they seemed unreal, of no account. She heard the spear fly wide into the tree at her side; then Baboona's running foot-steps and retreating cries. . . . Croft, astounded, had barely caught a glimpse of the dark face which he had often seen covertly watching him, before it was momentarily blotted out in smoke. He stood forward in hot pursuit; then, arrested by a choking cry, halted abruptly, and looked at the girl. . . .

She stood motionless; her eyes, luminous as stars, fixed upon him, her mouth a little open, the still smoking weapon lying at her feet. It had been no mild idea of causing Baboona fear which had impelled her action, but a furious, savage desire to kill! She had hurled herself to the rescue, regardless of all else.

Afterward, all power or desire to move seemed to leave her. A veil fell from before her eyes; and a brilliance streamed in, illuminating, scorching—full of such ecstasy that she stood as though transfixed, paralyzed with the wonder of it all, gazing upon him whom this brilliance had newly revealed. . . .

The breath caught in the man's throat; the blood reared madly through his veins; his eyes blazed, answering the glory of her own.

Like the Wagnerian lovers after drinking of the love potion, they stood a few feet apart, under the sun-flecked foliage of the trees, awed for a moment by the miracle. She raised her hand at last, as if inviting. . . . The spell broke.

Instantly his arms were around her. With an inarticulate cry, she was swept off her feet, clasped to his throbbing heart, his burning lips pressed hers, her hands clinging round his neck. . . .

all her individuality merged irrevocably into his, as a stream, falling through arms of rock, merges into the resistless waves of the ocean.

The sun was sinking, a fiery ball in an almost violet sky, its last rays shimmering golden-red across the water, when at last the two returned to the hut on what wonderful Christmas day. A new world greeted their eyes at every turn. Never had reef or sea or sky appeared so splendid. The superb, absolute egotism of newly found lovers enveloped them both: no other of each other disturbed hours. Rev. H. M. Wells, pastor of the Ninth Street Methodist church delivered an address yesterday at the Y. M. C. A.

Four negro cabins on Twelfth avenue were destroyed by fire yesterday.

An extra session of the law and equity court has been called for next Monday by Judge Thomas W. Wert, because of the heaviness of the criminal docket.

The previously announced program, commemorating David Livingstone was rendered last night at a mass meeting at the First Methodist church. Rev. W. N. Sholl, pastor of the First Presbyterian church being appointed chairman.

Captain Dick Ryan, county treasurer, after a week's absence, is back at his desk today.

S. L. McJilton, of Oklahoma, is the guest here of relatives.

A DAILY PRAYER—May we ever pray for the face of the Lord to shine upon us; and may we lift up our countenances unto Him at all times.

At least Charles B. Warren knows how to stand up under punishment.

Hotels should be "hopped up" over the Shoals idea for the summer months and the extra transient trade that it will undoubtedly mean.

A little cold weather failed to have any material bearing on the "Go to Church" movement. The church of the cities were taxed to capacity as usual on Sunday.

Baseball season is nearing but that does not mean that you are to get out a bat and practice knocking your fellowman just because he has faults and you haven't.

President Coolidge cannot show that he did not have ample warning of the fate which awaited his nominee in the senate.

Judge Leon McCord addressing the American Business Club, said: "your laws are being enforced exactly as your juries want them enforced."

The Office Cat must have been breakfasting in a hurry lately. This is his latest effusion: "Eat more grapefruit, it's a good eye wash."

One silyer lining in the cloud is that mere man still can generally get a shoe shine in a barber shop, without having to wait until a flapper finishes.

What divy do the radio announcers get from the telegraph companies on the amount of business the former develop for the latter?

The Alabama Legion's drive for its share of the nation and orphans of world war veterans will be started April wide endowment fund to take care of disabled veterans 1. Alabama will do her share.

If it is just the same to Chicago and vicinity, we'll permit them to keep their cold waves hereafter, North Alabama can get along very well without any more wintry blasts.

With congress requiring as much time for enactment of legislation as the solons do now, the question most puzzling is, how in the name of goodness did all those federal laws ever get on the statute books?

Madison county thinks that Judge Almon made some record in criminal procedure up there during the past two weeks when he obtained 92 convictions out of 118 cases. Those folks should see the judge in action in the Morgan county circuit court this week.

Three thousand gallons of alcohol was the loot of a raid conducted against a rum ship seized off the Mississippi coast. Gradually the bootleg business is being made a losing game financially. When the profit is taken out of the traffic, prohibition will enforce itself.

An exchange suggests that one rule of the senate, which might work wonders for the redemption of that body, would be a regulation for the abolition of all reading of poems on the floor of the "upper house." Without the reading of poems to occupy their time, who knows, the Muscle Shoals issue might be decided.

Archie Carmichael, of Tusculumbia, in announcing his candidacy for governor says schools, health and roads will be paramount in his campaign. More than likely they include about all of the political issues of the day.

Out in Texas, a legislator grew tired of trying to convince his fellow-solons that the "bat" should be abolished as a whip for flogging in the state penitentiaries. He gave a negro teamster a whip, patterned after those used in the penitentiaries. The negro was arrested when he used the "bat" on his team. The legislator said he wanted to show that Dallas would not stand for treatment of dumb animals in a manner in which convicts are treated in the same state.

BETTER TRAIN CONNECTION HERE
SOUGHT BY THE HUNTSVILLE TIMES

Over in Huntsville, Editor Pierce of the Huntsville Times is waging a warm fight for better service by the N. C. & St. L. If those who use the road will help him in the campaign, the object of his persistent drive likely will be obtained.—Albany-Decatur Daily.

Thank you, and rest assured that satisfactory results are coming from the N. & C. effort for better passenger train service. Also, if you please, put this additional fact down in your little note book; Southern Railway is not only doing some improving on the old Memphis & Charleston division of its line running via Greater Huntsville and Decatur but at the latter point definite steps are going to be taken to secure better train connections there. We have the dead wood on both the L. & N., and the Southern as to gross inconveniences unnecessarily inflicted on the public there, particularly having to do with seeing one train pull out just as the other pulls in, thereby, forcing thru passengers to remain at Decatur for hours and hours before they can proceed on to their destination.—Huntsville Daily Times.

In the foregoing paragraph, The Times leaves little doubt that the people of Huntsville are displeased with the train connections they make here. The Daily regrets that such is the case, for it wishes it could have the pleasure of entertaining the good people of Madison County more often, even to the extent of having them suffer more or less inconvenience in the matter of train schedules.

The Daily realizes, however, that few things are more nerve racking than the enforced waits for transportation, when one has means to travel and lacks but the way. We will not be selfish, and much as we like for our visitors to remain as long as possible in our midst, we wish them success in their efforts to put through the improvements they seek.

OPELIKA CELEBRATES GETTING MILL;
HUNTSVILLE CONCERN TO EXPAND

Despite the fact that Albany-Decatur share immediately in the benefits of neither, but because the Twin Cities believe that what helps one section of the state, helps every section of Alabama, our congratulations are extended to Opelika and Huntsville.

It will be recalled that some weeks ago, announcement was made that the Pepperell company, one of the largest concerns in the textile world, had decided to open a new mill at Opelika. The entire state was exulted by the announcement, while Opelika almost became hilarious.

Friday Opelika celebrated the announcement with an 80 page edition by the Opelika News. Now the News' force managed to publish the stupendous edition, while in no way neglecting its regular editions, is a secret they are not forced to share. The fact remains that the edition was published and it reflects not only credit on the News, but is a splendid advertisement for the entire Opelika section.

Over in Huntsville, Mr. Pierce and the Huntsville Times celebrated "Friday the Thirteenth" by announced under double line streamer heads that the Lowe mills there will raise their capital to an even million dollars, and will make extensive improvements and enlargements of their properties.

After reading these two interesting announcements, one feels no wonder when discovering in one of the textile publications, publication offices of which are located in Boston and Greensboro, that there is great woe in the camps of the textile world of New England.

The plants are finding in the South conditions so much better than what they had been encountering in New England, that rapidly the center of textile manufacture is being shifted to Southern states. First this city, and then that one, is reaping the benefit of the use by these manufacturers of the splendid opportunities offered in the South. As a result the whole state of Alabama is beginning to feel the stimulus of this development.

Opelika and Huntsville occupy the spotlight this week. Next week it may be Albany-Decatur, or some of the other progressive communities of the state. In the meantime, let us not forget that Albany, Ala., made its appearance last week in the Saturday Evening Post at the bottom of a full page advertisement of the Cooper-Wells products. That kind of publicity is going to help the state too.

THE PRIZE ALIBI

Various reasons are variously assigned by various people for the high prices of the various products they sell, and sometimes the reasons are so far-fetched that they strain the credulity of even the most gullible. It is natural for anybody selling anything to try to get as much for it as he can induce the purchaser to pay, but in trying to justify his prices to an inquisitive customer he should at least make his story sound plausible.

These random thoughts are prompted by a piece of press agent publicity recently sent out by a prominent construction company in the East explaining why building costs will not go lower and may go higher. The average, commonplace citizen can see many reasons why this might be true, and he would probably be inclined to accept a reasonable explanation of the causes of a continuation of present building cost levels, but what is he to think when he reads such tommyrot as this: "Nowadays rags enter into the manufacture of roofing to such an extent as to make their price and supply a real factor in the cost of a new building. Roofing manufacturers point out that of recent years there has been each a marked tendency of automobile owners to keep wearing their old clothes, refraining from the purchase of new ones until absolutely necessary, that a shortage of rags has resulted bringing about a 400 per cent increase in the cost of rags for roofing material."

Press agents are hired for the purpose of adding that embroidery of corroborative detail that gives an air of verisimilitude to an otherwise bald and unconvincing narrative; but if we had a press agent who sprung any such bunk as that story of the dearth of rags caused by the increasing thrift of the automobile owners, we would either do away with a press agent altogether or else retire from the business of vending whatever kind of roofing it is that is made out of the rags that the stingy automobilists are not producing as abundantly as of yore.—Nashville Tennessean.

The sensational success "White Cargo" which ran for over 2 years in New York at Daly's Theatre and duplicated its success in London and Chicago will be the attraction at the Masonic Theatre, Thursday evening,

March 19th. "White Cargo" is coming here with the universal stamp of approval from both the newspaper critics and public of the above cities which in itself should be sufficient guarantee to our theatregoers of the high merit of the attraction.

Grain Companies
Obtain Decision

(Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 16.—Congress cannot by access to books and papers through a federal investigating body all the information it desires for consideration in the formulation of a legislative party, the supreme court held today.

The court sustained a decision of the lower court in three cases from Maryland, brought by the government against Hammon Snyder and company, the Baltimore Grain company, and H. C. Jones company.

The federal trade commission, acting under a resolution passed by the senate, called upon the three grain houses for access to their account books for the purpose of gathering information in a study of the causes which had operated to force a decline in the price of grain. The lower federal court held congress did not have the power to compel corporations to submit their books to inspection, even though the data was sought to enable congress to determine whether remedial laws were required.

something," Faiman was quoted as saying.

Shepard is said to have told him the whole plan was working out and that Faiman should have no cause to worry.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 17.—The national university of science here, the head of which Charles C. Faiman has told state attorneys that he gave William Darling Shepard typhoid germs to administer was charged today by John W. Follmer, chief inspector on the educational board, with being a "diploma mill."

It was once a recognized second class school and was chartered in 1911 but has become bankrupt. Faiman, the head of the institution, is said to be a graduate of the University of Missouri and attended the University of Minnesota. He was said to have acquired the school at an auction and is said to have paid $250.00 for the institution.

According to Follmer "many of the courses were mail order courses advertised extensively in New York rural districts."

Law, divinity, embalming, languages, chiropody and other courses were offered in its literature as well as bacteriology and pathology. Listed on its staff were 15 faculty members all with various degrees although the school occupied an old mansion two and one-half stories high in the residential district.

Stories said the students were either gullible "country people" or "quacks" who wanted numerous diplomas to hang from their walls to impress the public.

Friends of Faiman called him "a good scholar on the wrong track." They said he is a genius in bacteriology and well qualified to teach. He has 26 degrees and is a graduate in law, medicine and surgery.

CONVERSION TEXT AT PRESBYTERIAN

Revivalist Talks To Great Crowds At the Church

"Conversion—Before and After," was the text used by Evangelist A. P. Gregory at the Monday evening service at the Presbyterian church, Decatur. The audience appreciated the message of the minister which was given in an interesting and meaning style. The thought of the minister was taken from John 11th chapter.

Texts—"Jesus said; Take ye away the stone."—John 11:39.
2. "Lazarus, come forth."—John 11:43.
3. And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave clothes; and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them "Loose him, and let him go."—John 11:44.

This miracle proves that Jesus is divine. Physical resurrection is a picture of spiritual resurrection. There are two deaths and two resurrections—spiritual and physical. All men experience physical death while only Christians experience spiritual resurrection. Lazarus experienced physical death and Jesus called him into physical resurrection. People are spiritually dead sometimes—even almost putrified. Is it too much for Jesus to call from spiritual decay to life eternal? "Though thy sins be as scarlet they shall be as white as snow." Salvation is of God. Men can tell how to be saved but only God can save. However God uses human instrumentalities—men, women and children. Christ did not resurrect Lazarus until folks standing by rolled away the stone. "Take ye away the stone." Christian people by their conduct and indifference make bigger the stone and stronger the seal to the graves of sin, of the unsaved. Folks sometimes are hedged in by the stone of indifference or self-righteousness. If we reach them for Christ we must help take away the stone.

Lazarus came forth but was sound with grave clothes—a live man, but bound. Jesus said: "Loose him and let him go." We get people into the church but do not help them to get off grave garments which belong in graves of sin and do not on resurrected man. We do not help them overcome old habits which bind. Lazarus came forth but could not see because he was bound with a napkin on his face. Some folks in churches can't see far—why this and that is wrong—because they are bound with a napkin on their face. We must loose them and help them see the beauties and glory of God.

Some people are spiritually alive yet with grave clothes on. David was a man after God's own heart yet he had on grave clothes. His life was miserable because he was living in sin. Christians living close to God are the happiest people in the world. Lazarus was not much better than a dead man because bound but when loosed he could rejoice and praise God. Dishonesty belongs to the grave. Untruthfulness, intemperance, immorality, profanity neglect of Christ and the church and worldliness are grave clothes. We receive great blessing if we do something for someone regardless of sacrifice. Lazarus was resurrected, loosed from binding grave clothes. Lazarus was free to praise God; people exercised their gifts and many believed.

COST VS. RESULTS

The COST of advertising in the CLASSIFIED COLUMNS is very small indeed, compared with the RESULTS that are obtained. Frequently people call and ask that an advertisement that COST only a few cents be taken out because the RESULTS have brought a buyer or a seller in a few hours after the Daily is on the streets.

PRICES

Minimum of 25 words. No advertisement taken for less than 25 cents. 25 words, 25c, one time; 50 cents three times; $1.00 six times. One cent is charged for each additional word. Classified columns are run on a strictly cash basis. Cash with order.

"KEEP YOUR HOUSE IN ORDER"

Would you leave $10,000.00 in your writing desk, or tucked away in some drawer, or down in the bottom of your trunk? Certainly not. Then be equally as careful with your life insurance policies, for some day they will be worth full face value, just like so much cash. Keep them in a safe, or vault, where they cannot be lost nor destroyed by fire.

AND THAT'S NOT ALL

When it becomes necessary for you to change the Beneficiary under one of your insurance policies, DO IT—DON'T PUT IT OFF. All you have to do, is notify the company, enclose the policy and they will do the rest. Keep your life insurance policies in a safe place, and keep them UP-TO-DATE.

Rabbit Maranville Ends Cub Career for Month With Broken Leg. Killifer Rallies.

Walter, "Rabbit" Maranville, Chicago Cub captain is destined to be under the March and April weather due to a broken leg that he sustained in an exhibition game at Los Angeles on yesterday where the Cubs were engaged in a bit of spring diamond frivolity. Walter and Bill Killifer brothers in arms gathered their thoughts together and began piecing a smashed lineup the minute the X-ray examination showed Maranville to have received a fractured leg. Wade Killifer is manager of the Indians while his brother Bill does managerial duties for the Cubs.

Ted Eldwin of the Seattle Washington club was shifted to the regular lineup to replace the Rabbit and if he shows sufficient ability will probably be included in the Cub roster, otherwise he will return to his club and continue diamond antics with happy thoughts of once having been looked at by a major league outfit.

Rabbit Maranville came to the Cubs along with Charlie Grimm, both members of the Pittsburgh Pirates of last season. Al Neihaus and Vic Aldridge were sent by the Cubs to the Buccaneers in exchange. Grimm and Maranville are considered to be about the best in their line and it is a puzzle to the diamond world that the Pirates' manager and owner, Barney Dreyfuss, should allow two such stellar performers to perform in another backyard.

The same old tune is being sung over. Gibbons and Wills may meet in New York in May. In that case the Dempsey go is called off, no doubt with much satisfaction to the champ who has been complaining about some foldovers in the middle section due to lack of ring action.

In case the fight materializes Harry Wills, negro pug, will receive close to $150,000, according to Tex Rickard who handled all the big fights. It is not known what Gibbons will receive.

Dempsey will not fight any man that is to receive over $50,000 for a battle. His manager turns the pages of history back a few years and points to a great day at Toledo when the champion gathered in only $27,500 for pasting Jess Willard out of a championship. Kearns gives this as a reason for the failure to allow a fighter to receive any more than $50,000 for a crack at the title.

Babe Ruth, despite his injured finger, went into the lineup against the Braves at St. Petersburg, Fla., and garnered two hits for the afternoon. The Yanks went down in defeat 6-1.

Pa Stribling doesn't seem to be worried in the least about the Birmingham officials action in calling the Stribling bout to a close on account of the Alabama state laws. The Atlanta youth arrived in the Magic City this morning and is only awaiting the bell to cast a defi into the face of authorities.

Pa Stribling announced that he had arranged a fight for April 25th for his son. Young Bill is to meet Quentin Romero Rojas, Chilian heavyweight who has been considered as a leader in the heavyweight ranks. The fight is to take place in Boston.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT WILL REOPEN TONIGHT

Another 10-pin bowling tournament opens at the Y M C A tonight with the Demolays matched against the Bear Cats. The former team rates a small handicap of 57 pins.

The following schedule holds good for this week, namely: Tuesday, Railroaders vs. the Tigers; Wednesday, Y Dormitory vs. Daily; Thursday, Decors vs. Machine Shop, and Friday, Business Men vs. Y Directors.

A new feature in bowling at the Y M C A will be the admittance of women to alleys, both as onlookers to the men during their matches evenings, and also as participants in bowling. However, the women will have their special period for bowling, which at the present time will be every Wednesday afternoon from about 3 o'clock until 6 o'clock.

SECOND BOWLING TOURNAMENT IS WELL UNDERWAY AT "Y"

Ten pin bowling at the Y. M. C. A. is again well underway, with all teams ready to go.

Last night the Demolays met the Bear Cats, with the result that the Demolays cleaned up four whole points. This loss is attributed to poor breaks on the part of Bear Cat bowlers. Their only good bowler was Chief Sorber who bowled high for the Cats, making high single 152 pins, and total 427.

Speer was the sharp shooter for the Demolays, making games of 154, 142 and 158, total 454. This puts Speer in the lead thus far in the new tournament.

Teams bowling tonight will be the Railroaders vs. the Tigers. The latter team gets a handicap of 60 pins.

You Can Tell When A Woman Lacks Energy and Vitality

Dull Eyes, Sallow Complexion, Carelessness in Keeping Herself Looking Neat and Attractive Are Unmistakable Signs that She Is Victim of Catarrh.

Catarrh of the generative organs—the disease which creeps on you unaware and shows itself in lack of appetite, loss of sleep, pains in the back and sides, cramping spells, irritability, and a seeming impossibility to regain weight and strength—has been proven to be the direct cause of the poor physical condition of many girls and women commonly known as "female trouble." And the fact that no other medicine has been able to overcome this dread disease only emphasizes the reason for the phenomenal success of St. Joseph's G. F. P.

More and more women are finding that this medicine is making wonderful changes in their personal appearance, vitality and health, which they never dreamed were possible. The rapid spread of the fame of St. Joseph's G. F. P., the great and sudden growth in its sales since its introduction here, the tremendous and hearty interest shown by the women who are using it, by voluntarily praising its qualities, proves beyond the shadow of a doubt that its discoverers were right in their claim to have found the thing which overcomes and stamps out the malady which has been keeping women from enjoying in the fullest measure the pleasures of society and the blessings of motherhood.

At social gatherings between neighbors and among friends the wonderful effects gotten by using St. Joseph's G. F. P. is becoming the chief topic of conversation.

Women Now Depend on St. Joseph's G. F. P. To Restore Their Vitality

Moulton News

Sunday was a bloody day in Lawrence county with a record for which none of the citizens are proud, and as a result at least three deaths are already reported with two or three others possible. In the forenoon of the day S. H. Moats, aged 35, married, wife and children living, is said to have been passing by the home of Jimmy Row and Floyd Letson, about seven or eight miles northwest of Moulton. Moats, it is said, was leading a horse and a cow and carrying a gun. When the Letsons saw him they ran out to the road with pistols and ordered him, it is said, to throw up his hands; whether he did so or not is not clear. It is said the Letsons fired at Moats 18 times and hit him fourteen times. It is also said that the man was dead by the second shot. Jimmy Row Letson brought the news to Moulton where he came in and surrendered himself. Officers went for Floyd Letson and found him at the home of his sweetheart. He is said to have told the officers he intended to surrender as soon as he had seen his girl. Moats was the son of George Moats, a well known and good citizen of the Loosier and Mount Moriah districts. The tragedy is said to be the climax of an old quarrel lasting for several years, and it is claimed, that Moats has been threatening the lives of the Letsons for some time.

FINE AND SENTENCE

A defendant in Albany police court this morning, charged with violation of the prohibition laws, was fined $103.00 and given 90 days.

New York Letter
By Lucy Lawrence Price

NEW YORK, March 11.—The crash of the uninvited at the doors of balls and other private parties has become so tremendous that an iron-clad ticket rule has been put into effect in these last weeks of the current season by New York hostesses. More than that, two of the hostesses friends who know her lists stand near the doors and check on the ticket holders. The climax of the past of the uninvited, which has steadily grown worse in these past three seasons, reached its climax on one occasion this winter, when a hostess giving a ball at one of our smartest hotels found that 1100 had partaken of her refreshments, where five hundred had been invited.

We have all heard stories of the postmen who spend their days off taking walks, but four New York taxi drivers are the subjects of an even better story, and a true one. The four decided to spend their day off in taking a taxi drive around Brooklyn. They started off bravely but the taxi ran into a lamp post and overturned and they all sustained injuries, not serious but sufficient to impress them with the dangers of being passengers instead of drivers.

There is a beautiful and dramatic material in Biblical history and if its treated beautifully, there seems no reason why it shouldn't be put on the stage. "The Virgin of Bethulia," at the Ambassador theater is the story of Judith and Holofernes, with the lovely Julia Hoyt and Judith McKay Morris as the handsome monster whose head she struck off in a fit of piety. It is an impressive production and a tremendously interesting one.

Bobbed hair from sunrise to sunset and then long, waving tresses. Such is the edict of the hairdressers of the country, in convention assembled here. It's all a matter of wigs, and they insist that decorative wigs for evening wear are the only compatible solution of the problem of the shingled head. They insist it is more than an edict, it is a sure prediction and that before summer is upon us, there will be no clipped hair lines appearing after the dinner hour has come. Moreover, they tell us that the evening wigs may be of quite a different color.

The Daughters of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames, the Children of Plymouth Rock, or whatever may be their name—or any other similar organizations can no longer boast that they alone are holding up the banner of pure American blood. Their newest rival isn't human, but it's wholly American just the same and it dates farther back than any of them. It is a garden and it is to be started in our own Bronx this summer. No tree, no herb, no shrub which cannot trace its pedigree back to early American stock well known to Indian tribes before the coming of the white men will be allowed to grow within its borders. Seven acres have been set aside for the garden, given Archer M. Huntington to the Hovey Foundation for the American Indian.

No martial jealousy is to encroach upon the dramatic careers of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schildkraut and it seems that such jealousy becomes particularly acute when husbands and wives find themselves playing in the same production and struggling for triumph from the same audiences. Also it works badly upon their art. So the Schildkrauts have signed an agreement prepared by a regular lawyer, promising each other never to play together in the same play. "To create the successful love-making part in any play," Mrs. Schildkraut says.

YOUR HEALTH

Nature Cares for Heart If You Don't Abuse It

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ALL the organs and cavities of the body have delicate lining membranes. Nature is noted for finished workmanship and she leaves no ragged edges or unfinished corners.

I think we should expect the heart, an organ so essential to life itself, to be particularly well finished. And it is. Its interior is carefully and perfectly lined with a membrane called the "endocardium."

No matter where these lining membranes are found their very delicacy and tenderness render them liable to infection and disease. The wonder is they are not more commonly involved. It is a great tribute to the wisdom and genius of the Creator that the functions of the body are so wondrously well directed that such delicate tissues as I have described are rarely attacked by serious disease.

Sometimes the endocardium becomes inflamed. The ailment is known as endocarditis. It is almost always a symptom of some other trouble. It is rare indeed to have the endocardium originally attacked. Almost always the inflammation follows so je other disease. For instance, scarlet fever, pneumonia, Bright's disease, diabetes, gut, rheumatism and St. Vitus's dance may have endocarditis as a secondary disturbance.

The first symptom noticed may be a slight difficulty in breathing. Sometimes there is a feeling of distress in the chest.

When these signs of trouble are observed the doctor may find that the valves of the heart, which are covered with the same delicate membrane, are not closing properly. There may be serious thickening of the valves and interference with their function.

I have told you about a lot of diseases that the surest means of cure is their prevention. It is true of endocarditis that it should be an unknown disease. If we could guard against the ailments which cause it there would be no endocardial attacks.

It must be admitted, of course, that it will be a long time before we can protect ourselves from the disturbing illness, which may not be serious in themselves but which lead to all sorts of secondary troubles. Until then we must know what to do in the treatment of the ill to which flesh is heir.

The first thing to do in endocarditis is to give absolute rest to the patient. This may mean weeks and even months. Rest and sleep and plain diet—these are the simple rules of conduct.

The original ailment must be given first consideration. If it can be controlled, the endocarditis takes care of itself.

Answers to Health Questions

A. S. F. Q.—What causes high blood pressure and what can I do to relieve it?

A.—This condition is usually caused by indigestion in diet for a long time, constipation and failure in kidney function. Simple food, omission of tea, coffee and alcohol are essential.

S. E. G. Q.—What would be apt

"an actor or actress must make whole souled efforts. The prospect of expressing the same degree of affection in private life toward the same person with whom you have just expended every atom of artificial love expression you possess in a play is too great a strain on emotions. So Joe and I have decided we can best protect our romance by remaining apart on the stage."

to cause my scalp to itch and my hair to fall out? Can you suggest a cure?

A.—This condition may be due to a dryness of the scalp. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and restate your question.

ANXIOUS B. K. R. Q.—Would you advise eating articles of food which have been frozen? Fish, for instance?

2.—What should a girl of 18, 4 feet 11 inches tall, weigh?
3.—What would cause the heart to beat rapidly upon going up a hill or climbing stairs?
4.—If one abstains from sweets, is it possible to gain in weight?

A.—Yes, if the food was in good condition before it became frozen.
2.—She should weigh about 112 pounds.

3.—This might be due to palpitation caused by nervousness or to some form of indigestion. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

4.—Yes, a normally healthy person should be able to gain in weight without the aid of sweets. Plenty of rest and sleep, good, nourishing food and regular outdoor life should all build up the body.

P. K. Q.—What would you advise for eczema in a seven-months-old, bottle-fed baby?

A.—This is probably due to some fault in his diet. The milk formula may be too rich, perhaps. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

L. K. Q.—I am a girl of 16, 5 feet 10 inches tall. Will I grow taller? Is it harmful to apply peroxide to the hair once a week? What will be the result?

A.—You may grow a little, but probably not to a great extent.
2.—Yes, it has a tendency to dry the hair. The hair will be bleached.

Albany-Decatur Daily,
Albany, Ala.

Mr. Editor: Your notice of election of April 7th submitting the $50,000 bond issue to the people for their approval, recalls experiences that I had lately.

On a train en route home a gentleman said to me "Albany-Decatur—Yes—good towns. You are going to build a bridge across Tennessee River, I see. Fine thing to do—wonderful. Surely, you will build it."

Carl Patterson and I were picked up on a street in Birmingham by a lady driving an automobile.

"Down town? Get in! Oh, from Albany-Decatur? And you surely will build that bridge I have been reading about. I crossed the river there once, on a ferry boat—but a bridge—Oh you must put one there."

Just think—what a help—what an advertisement.
